FUNERAL OF MRS. HARRISON

Lovely Flowers Almost Bury the Casket—Queen Victoria's Magnificent Wreath.

Alarming Uprising of Several Hundred Prisoners in a Boston Penitentiary.

Gen. Herbert on Halifax's Defences—Searching for Birchall's Executioner.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Harrison will be buried in the McKee lot in Crown Hill cemetery. This burial spot has no grave as yet. It is a sloping piece of ground with trees on two sides, but open to the sun. Notification that it had been chosen was received by telegraph from Secretary Halford. The President indicated his preference on the matter of funeral arrangements, and in accordance therewith, Dr. M. L. Haines announces that the ceremonies will be brief and simple. Instead of music from a full choir, there will probably be a quartette. "Lead kindly light," and "One sweetly solemn thought," will be sung. The preacher's talk will be short.

An hour before the services began the casket was brought downstairs from the room in which Mrs. Harrison died, and placed in the centre of the room, directly underneath the middle chandelier. At either end of the casket stood immense sago palms, their graceful, waving branches reaching nearly to the ceiling. Then the doors were thrown open to admit the first arrivals. The scene was strikingly beautiful. The chandeliers cast a flood of mellow light, the windows being darkened. The mantelpiece was banked with ferns and flanked at each end by a large palm; around the casket were grouped great wreaths of floral offerings, by which the friends of Mrs. Harrison, present and absent, had testified to her worth. They filled all the space on either side of the casket, and almost to the windows on the east and the door into the corridor in the west, connecting the apartment with the private portion of the house. At the head stood a cross sent by the Republican State Central Committee of California, made of white chrysanthemums. From the angle of the cross was suspended a wreath of yellow chrysanthemums, and against the base rested another of red roses and palms. Opposite this at the foot was a massive crown, the gift of the New York chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution. It was composed of chrysanthemums and white roses, with a base of violets. Broad streamers of white silk bore on their ends the insigna of the order and the name of the chapter.

On the head of the casket rested a wreath prepared at the White House conservatory by direction of the President. It was made of white roses and orchids, of which Mrs. Harrison was very fond; another wreath of carnations and chrysanthemums, also favorites of Mrs. Harrisen, will be placed upon the casket at Indianapolis. It is practically impossible to give more than mention of the emblems that surrounded the casket. They comprised every known device appropriate for such occasions, and in profusion unequalled in the experience of any who witnessed it

Among them were the following:—Wreath of chrysanthemums from Queen Victoria, presented by Hon. Michael Herbert, British charge d' affaires. Mammoth wreath from the diplomatic corps, composed of chrysanthemums, roses, pink orchids and palms, tied with three bows of broad heliotrope ribbon, on one of which was inscribed "The diplomatic corps." Wreath of large chrysanthemums surrounding a bunch of rose blooms from the cabinet; cross of ivy leaves and chrysanthemums from Vice-President and Mrs. Morton. After the services, the flowers, or as many of them as could be carried in two large wagons were taken to the station and placed with the casket in the observation car of the funeral train.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the first of those who attended services in the east room entered the White house, and from the time of their appearance until the services began a constant stream of social, official and political friends of the Harrison family came through the gates of the mansion in vehicles and on foot.

A few minutes before 10, ex-Secretary Blaine, following close behind Mrs. Blaine and Miss Hattie Blaine, entered the White House. It was his first visit since just before that memorable day when he sent his resignation as Secretary.

Singly and in groups of two and three the people came to pay their last tribute to the first lady of the land. There were many persons of distinction, and many who had no other claim on the dead woman than love or the remembrance of some kindly act done by her.

Those present, barely 200 in number, were almost exclusively the official family of the President and those whose relations with the family put them on the footing of domestic friends. When the spectators had resumed their seats in silence Dr. Hamlin, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, read passages of scripture, followed by a brief prayer, closed by the Lord's prayer, which all present repeated in low tones after the officiating clergyman. Then Dr. Bartlett read from the scripture passages appropriate to the occasion. From the recesses in concealment in the adjoining room, the choir sang the first two stanzas of the late Cardinal Newman's beautiful hymn, which Mrs. Harrison much admired "Lead, kindly Light." During a pause in the music, the bearers came in and slowly bore the casket from the room, while all stood in silence. Then the hymn was resumed and completed, and a pause of several minutes, which seemed much longer to the sympathizing watchers, ensued befor Sergeant Loeffler returned to announce to the waiting mourners that their carriages were ready. The President and family retired in the same order in which they entered. After a sufficient time had been allowed for them to pass out of the portals of the White House, the cabinet, the justices of the Supreme Court and the diplomatic corp followed in order, and the rest of the assembly quietly disappeared.

A Military Necessity.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—Major-General Herbert says that it is extremely unlikely that the garrison now at Halifax will be withdrawn, a design attributed to Mr. Gladstone by a recent dispatch. The Major-General advances a number of cogent reasons for entertaining his belief. It is extremely unlikely in his opinion, that in the short space of three months during which the Gladstone government has been in power, such an all-important movement would be determined upon. Then again, lying as it does at the Atlantic gateway to the new transcontinental route, which is even now being used for the transportation of Imperial forces, the maintenance of a garrison at Halifax is almost a matter of military necessity.

Hung Up by the Thumbs.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 27.—The case of ex-private H. L. Iams, who was punished by being hung up by the thumbs for misconduct and indiscreet utterances on the occasion of the shooting of H. C. Frick, while the militia were doing guard duty at Homestead, in which Lieut. J. Stretor, Col. Hawkins and Assistant Sargeon Grimm, were charged with aggravated assault and battery, was called this morning. The selection of a jury occupied the morning session of the court. A motion was made to quash the indictment on the grounds of no jurisdiction. Judge Perley overruled the motion, but will permit the question to be again raised during the trial.

Thompson's Chances Best.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—It is understood that the Government have been advised from England that Premier Abbott will soon forward his resignation to Lord Stanley. In consequence of this 25 Conservative members of Parliament were summoned to the city to-day to confer with the Government as to his successor. Nearly all interests are represented in the House of Commons, as well as the various creeds and nationalities by the members. There is little doubt but that Sir John Thompson will get the appointment.

Birchall's Executioner.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—Sheriff McIntyre of Cornwall is endeavoring to locate Radclive, who executed Birchall and others, to conduct the execution of Slavin, the Cornwall murderer, on December 16th. One of the sheriff's deputies arrived in the city last evening and this morning will start out on a still hunt in search of his man. Radclive was formerly in charge of the Sunnyside boat club, but it is supposed he left the city lately without saying where he was going.

Heavy weather also prevailed along the cast coast of England. To-day a severe wind and rain storm prevailed off the mouth of the Tyne. A schooner was wrecked in Strangford Lough, Ireland, and the crew of six men were drowned.

A Sorely Tried Family.

John Liston, the son, has been greatly afflicted, four of his children were burned to death some years ago.

To See Canadian Ranches.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—Lieut. Col. Bentinck, a relative of the Duke of Portland, is here on his way to the coast, along with Baron Heckeren Wassenaer of Holland. He says that farming in the old country is at a very low ebb, wheat selling as low as ten shillings for a sack of 240 pounds; land and cattle being also proportionately cheap. They came to Canada principally to see the ranches.

ALL ABOUT THE SMALLPOX.

Dr. Davie Tells the Court About his Doings During the Late Unpleasantness.

Dr. Sproule Also Gives Expert Testimony and is Followed by Dr. Fraser.

A Mass of Interesting and Instructive Particulars Elicited During the Day.

Dr. John Davie, provincial health officer, took the stand after recess. Smallpox had been epidemic several times during the twenty-five years he had practiced in Victoria. The first case that came under his personal knowledge occurred early in June, the patient being Hilton, who lived on Cadboro Bay road. About the same time a man went to St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from smallpox, and shortly afterwards he attended Mr. Waitt. Since making enquiries he came to the conclusion that the disease was brought to the province by the China and Japan steamer. Cases of developed smallpox were brought to the province on these steamers. If a proper quarantine law had existed and had been carried out, the cases would have been limited to those who had the disease on the steamers. It should be a very easy thing to prevent the introduction of smallpox from China and Japan, as the steamers are two weeks on the trip, and the disease is given time to develop. The Dominion quarantine law is a very poor one. At present there are specific directions for the quarantine officer. At present the officer can do as he pleases. If he likes he can take the infected passengers off the steamer, and let the steamer and passengers go on their way. If a steamer arrives with a developed case of smallpox on board, the steamer and passengers should be quarantined for the extreme limit of incubation. The opinion is that smallpox is not communicatable before incubation. All the passengers on a steamer on which there is a case should be treated as suspects. The first requisite of a quarantine station is that it should be easily accessible from the water, and it should be isolated. There should be proper buildings, a good supply of water, a burial ground near the station. Medical men should be in attendance and supplies attended it.

Dr. Davie was giving evidence before the Royal Commission when the TIMES went to press last evening. He said immediately upon the discovery of a case of smallpox the patient should be placed in a thoroughly isolated hospital and the place where the patient had been fumigated.

About the 6th of July he attended Hon. Mr. Vernon and Miss Sweet. The next cases he saw were those at the Jubilee quarantine station, on the 10th of July. The disease was then rapidly becoming epidemic. The witness related the experience the municipal authorities had at that time, with injunctions, etc. On the 9th of July he was appointed provincial health officer and the same evening, by the Attorney-General and President Davies, of the Jubilee Hospital, met and decided to ask the municipal authorities to use the Jubilee grounds for a quarantine station, and allow the Jubilee Hospital directors to manage the station. The Mayor formally consented. The same evening work was commenced on the necessary buildings, which were completed the next evening and a number of patients were placed in them. The regulations handed to him on the 11th of July, meant to his mind three things: The isolation of patients, the isolation of suspects and also he thought compulsory vaccination. The first was effected by the establishment of the Jubilee quarantine station.

Dr. Davie went over the trouble he had had with the municipal authorities, the authorities he said disobeyed his orders and therefore disobeyed the laws of the land. On this account he urged the suspension of Dr Milne as health officer, especially as far as smallpox was concerned.

The witness was of opinion that vaccination is smallpox. A person's susceptibility to vaccine or smallpox does not vary from day to day and some time it does not vary from year to year. If a man is subsceptiable to the disease he will take it by the first exposure. Some people could only contract the disease by inoculation.

The commission adjourned at 5:50 until to-day. Dr. Davie's evidence was not concluded at that time.

Dr. G. Fraser was the first witness called this morning. He visited the quarantine station four times, under instructions from Dr. Milne. These visits were on the 6th, 8th, 10th and 13th of July. The percentage of the mortality during the recent outbreak was very light. As far as the sanitary surroundings are concerned, the Albert Head station could not be improved, and it would not be difficult to have the place thoroughly drained. None of the patients suffered on account of the beds being placed on the ground, although it would have been better to have bedsteads. Supplies, disinfectants and medicines had not been sent down with the first patient, as it was thought that they could be obtained at the station. vaccination he considered the chief safeguard against smallpox. Infants should be vaccinated before they are a year old. He did not approve of indiscriminate arm to arm vaccination. He did not consider arm to arm vaccination equal to vaccination by virus from a cow. The liabilities to convey other diseases are greater by arm to arm vaccination. In regard to cases of scarlet fever, diptheria, measles, etc., he thought should be reported to the health officer, and if possible treated in an infectious disease hospital. It would also be advisable to isolate persons who had come in contact with patients. Scarlet fever is more fatal and diptheria as fatal as smallpox. He certainly approved of having all smallpox patients sent to a hospital. The board of health should consist entirely of medical men appointed by the Government executive, or the medical men of the city. The boards of the cities should be under some central control. A provincial health act is also necessary, so as to have a conformity of rules throughout the province.

Dr. R. E. Sproule related his connection with the recent outbreak of smallpox. On the 5th July was called to see Monkhouse, when he had a high temperature. On the 6th his temperature was lower, and on the 7th it was normal. On that day went over to the Sound, having previously made arrangements with Dr. Fraser to attend to his patients. On the 8th Dr. Fraser had to go to Albert Head, and consequently did not see Monkhouse. On 10th Monkhouse, still taking his medicines, felt so well that he went down town, got a shave and took a bath. When I returned from the Sound at 4:30 on Saturday afternoon I found my office, which was in the Clarence hotel, quarantined. The quarantine was kept up for 16 days. Had made a study of the subject of vaccination and was very strongly in favor of bovine vaccination. Such diseases as scrofula and syphillis can be carried into the system by arm to arm vaccination. In the region of the Pyrenees in France 150 cases of syphillis were traced to vaccination. This is from the authority of Dr. Peppe, in Vol. 1. Arm to arm vaccination is not practiced in the United States. A commission appointed in Germany to investigate vaccination said in their report that in future none but bovine matter would used in the army. I have a doubt that consumption can be contracted by vaccination. I do not know that scarlet fever or typhoid fever can be caught by drinking milk. I believe children should be vaccinated under a compulsory system, but as to older people I will answer that it is a grave question. I regard a vaccinated person as a dangerous one. I believe I will add that vaccination among children should be compulsory, conducted, however, with great care and discrimination, and also with bovine matter from a farm in the province. I believe cholera and scarlet fever, if epidemic, should be quarantined at an infectious disease hospital. Scarlet fever I regard as about equally fatal as smallpox. I would quarantine it in the houses until it becomes epidemic. Great care should be used in removal. Smallpox should be centrally quarantined. Typhus also. Measles, typhoid, diphtheria and chickenpox should not be quarantined. All infectious diseases should be reported. I do not believe the acts requiring the reporting of births, cases of sickness and deaths are enforced. I never make any report and other doctors tell me the same. I know little about the medical board here. I know I paid $100 for an examination, which I afterwards ascertained I need not have taken.

Evidence was still being taken.

NEW WESTMINSTER.

Expenses of Dyking in Surrey—Football Club—Chief of Police Angry.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Oct. 27.—At a meeting to discuss what steps should be taken to prevent Surrey Council from saddling the whole of Surrey municipality with the dyking expenses, at South Westminster yesterday afternoon, it was decided to employ counsel to make the corporation through the courts pay the interest on the debentures.

The motion to quash the bonus by-law was up again this morning, but as the cross-examination on the affidavits was not concluded, it was adjourned until to-morrow.

The Moonlight football club has been organized with the following officers: Hon. president, J. W. McColl; president, H. L. Edmonds; vice-president, J. T. Wilson; captain, A. W. Gray; vice-captain, J. Patterson; secretary-treasurer, W. McQuarrie; general committee—I. Rankin, J. H. Eckhoff and W. F. Edmunds.

Disorderly Homesteaders.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Oct. 27.—Matters are growing more serious here every day. Assaults upon assaults are committed, but thus far no person upon whom to rest the blame has been apprehended. The advisory board disclaim any part in the trouble and express themselves anxious to have the matter cleared up, and when it is, they say startling truths will be brought to light. Last night John Horner and George W. Fyock, non-union workmen, carrying a keg of beer, were set upon by 20 men and boys, and Horner received a pistol ball in the left shoulder. He and Fyock returned the fire, and about 20 shots were exchanged. A boy named Clark was shot in the leg. Deputy sheriffs appeared and dispersed the crowd, making three arrests. This afternoon additional deputies arrived from Pittsburg and were immediately assigned to duty. Sheriff McCleary is expected on a later train, and will bring with him 34 deputies. The sheriff's proclamation is posted throughout the town, warning all disorderly persons that they will be arrested on sight, without warrant, and that any one who resists arrest does so at his peril.

The St. John, N.B., election is fixed for November 24.

The bank of Montreal has declared the regular half-yearly dividend of 5 per cent.

Messrs. Nicholas Flood Davin and J. D. Costigan, the latter of Calgary, have been created Queen's Counsel.

The rumor is again revived in Montreal that J. J. Curran, member of Parliament for Montreal Centre, will shortly be taken into the Cabinet.

Edward Detchel, of Toronto, unmarried, employed in the Standard Woolen Factory, fell into a vat of boiling water at the factory and was frightfully scalded. He may die.

A. Chrisler, a Teeterville school teacher, convicted of swindling school teachers by means of bogus advertisements, has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment at hard labor.

George Grierson, a Portage la Prairie threshing machine owner, was held up by robbers in that town. A shot took effect in his breast. This stunned him, and he was relieved of $600 which he had to pay the threshing gang.

At the County Court at St. John, N. B., the jury has returned true bills against C. B. Welton, Rev. C. Welton, Dr. Randall and G. Reid on charges of conspiracy to defraud. These are the so called graveyard insurance cases.

Chown & Cunningham's moulders at Kingston have returned to work, the objectionable furnace having been put in first-class condition. The moulders in the Ontario Foundry and Locomotive Works, however, have refused to return to work on the reduced scale of wages.

The Government has been notified from Newfoundland that delegates leave St. Johns November 2 for Halifax to discuss trade matters with the Canadian ministers. It is probable Sir John Thompson will replace Hon. Mr. Tupper on the Dominion delegation, Mr. Tupper sailing for England on Sunday.

Ex-Ald J. B. Boustead, of Toronto, one of the most prominent men in the city, has called a meeting of his creditors. A year ago he was reported to be worth $150,000, and the reverse of his fortune is the result of his name being attached to a number of covenants to real estate mortgages. His liabilities are estimated at $60,000.

The opening ceremonies in connection with Victoria University were concluded and the new building in Queen's Park, Toronto, was formally declared open by Lieut.-Governor Kirkpatrick. The chief incident of the day was the announcement by Dr. Potts that he had received a cheque for $40,000 from H. A. Massey, of Toronto, to be used to endow a chair of theology in the new college.

The Biggest Swindler Living.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Truth to-day contains an interesting exposure of a man named Wells, whom it calls "the biggest swindler living." Truth says Wells is the man who recently gained considerable notoriety through his alleged winnings at Monte Carlo. Wells' latest exploits have been on a larger scale than before. Within a few months, under the pretence that he was about to float patents that would yield enormous wealth to investors, he victimized one woman out of £18,000, another out of £5000, and a man out of £10,000, in the meantime swindling a number of others, ranging from workmen with a few days' sayings to invest, to persons of considerable wealth. Truth expresses doubts as to the sensational stories told about Wells' winnings at Monte Carlo, and demands the swindler's public prosecution. Mr. Labouchere promises that if the victims will take the initial steps, he will place the rascal in the grip of the authorities, who will not be slow to assume the burden of prosecution.

Offensive to O'Kelly.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—J. J. O'Kelly, Irish Home Ruler and ex member of Parliament, has sued for libel Dr. Lecaron, the author of "Recollections of a Spy," and Hemensun, the publisher, who laid the book before the public a few days ago. The statements especially offensive to Mr. O'Kelly are to the effect that he was connected with the Clan-na Gael. The trial of this case will be practically the same as re-opening the Parnell commission.

Alexander Offended.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—It is reported here that the Czar was deeply offended by the Emperor Franz Joseph's decision at the last moment not to meet him at Skiernievice. Emperor Franz Joseph is said to have sent a dispatch to the Czar, stating that owing to the Emperor William's visit to Vienna he felt that he could not come. Although this story is common report in official circles and the press, no satisfactory authority can be found for it.

Talking of patent medicines—you know the old prejudice. And the doctors—some of them are between you and us. They would like you to think that what's cured thousands won't cure you. You'd believe in patent medicines if they didn't profess to cure everything—and so, between the experiments of doctors, and the experiments of patent medicines that are sold only because there's money in the "stuff," you lose faith in everything.

And, you can't always tell the prescription that cures by what you read in the papers. So, perhaps, there's no better way to sell a remedy, than to tell the truth about it, and take the risk of its doing just what it professes to do.

That's what the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y. does with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

If they don't do what their makers say they'll do—you get your money back. tu-th-s-w

In Memory of Luther.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—A grand feature of the reconstruction of the Lutheran Memorial church at Wittenberg, on October 31, will be the procession into the church through the door to which Luther nailed his celebrated thesis against the doctrine of indulgences. This procession will comprise Emperor William and other sovereign princes of Germany, and promises to be a spectacle of great splendor. The Supreme Protestant Council of Prussia has ordered memorial sermons to be preached in all the pulpits within its jurisdiction on Sunday next. The greater part of the cost of restoring the church has been borne by Emperor William. The Duke of York, heir presumptive to the throne of Great Britain, will represent Queen Victoria.

PUGILIST JACKSON ARRIVES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The World says Peter Jackson is one of the cabin passengers of the Teutonic, which came to anchor at quarantine about 8 o'clock to-night. A World reporter had a long range interview with him from a small row boat, lying to the starboard side of the steamer. Peter came out on deck and looked over the rail. He was feeling remarkable well, he said. "What are your plans in regard to Corbett?" was asked. "I intend to challenge him as soon as I reach New York. I shall be right after him, I promise you, for he owes me a match." "You have heard that the Coney Island Club will give $25,000 for the fight?" "No, I have not," was the response, "but I have a good offer from the National Club of London; $20,000 is the figure." "Would you object fighting at Coney Island?" "I have never objected to any place where fair play is assured," said Jackson, "but I think the conditions under which we could fight in London would be favorable to both of us. However, I shall probably meet some of the Coney Island people to morrow and we can talk the matter over." Jackson said that he had seen Mitchell, but did not believe that the latter's talk about fighting Corbett amounted to anything.

FOOTBALL.

THE USE OF COLLEGES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Great uneasiness is felt at Princeton over the possible return of Heffelfinger to Yale college in time for the big game with Princeton. It would be just like Yale to set him in the line a day or two before the game. Heffelfinger is in training with the Chicago team and could get into his old position in a jiffey. "The only thing we could do to offset such an emergency would be to get Jesse Riggs back again," said one of the Princeton team. "Jesse remarked while here recently that he only left Princeton college because Heffelfinger left Yale. I have no doubt that we could get him back again in a hurry if 'Heff' was to jump into the Yale line." So far the Princeton men have made every endeavor to induce Riggs to enter college to take his old place on the team, but without avail. If "Heff" joins Yale, as the Princeton's suspect, there is very little doubt Jesse will again jump into a canvas jacket for Princeton. In case these two great guards meet in the field again a battle royal is sure to be the result. This will be worth giving a hundred leagues to see. They have tussled year after year for the mastery, and while "Heff" is a faster sprinter than Riggs and possibly a better ground gainer, Riggs has held him down better than any man who ever faced him. There is some ground for the uncertain feeling in Princeton with regard to "Heff." The ex-Yale guard came east with the Chicago team last week, and by this time all the eloquence of Yale is being brought to bear upon him. Every inducement will be offered him, just as the Princeton men have offered all inducements to Riggs. Then again, Yale is always springing something in the way of a surprise on their opponents. If they can catch Riggs out of condition it would be just what they desire. "Heff" can "play horse" with the ordinary run of guards. If he can withstand the blandishments of the Yale men he will prove a wonder. Of one thing the football public may rest assured, it "Heff" plays with Yale, Riggs will with Princeton.

Cholera in Jersey City.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Considerable excitement in Jersey City Heights today in consequence of a death, said to be due to Asiatic cholera William Bonner, carpenter, aged 28, of 111 Franklin street, came from work to dinner yesterday apparently in good health. Dr. Jos. Grooney, who attended him, pronounced it a genuine case of Asiatic cholera. City physician, Dr. John B. Henry, and county physician Dr. Converse, agree with Dr. Rooney in his diagnosis of the case.

The Green-Eyed Monster Again.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—Herr Lange, a master cooper at Bremen, becoming jealous of his sweetheart, went to her home and began firing at her with a revolver. Two women who lived in the house interfered and attempted to protect their unfortunate companion, whereupon Lange shot them also. All three of the women were killed, and Lange then committed suicide.

BOMBAY, Oct. 26.—The Bombay Gazette says that Joseph Hoffman, the pianoforte prodigy, has reached Calcutta as a stowaway on the ship Backhurst. He had been visiting a relative in Cardiff, where he got on board the Backhurst. He will give concerts in Calcutta and other Indian cities.

HILL'S OWN STYLE.

The Kind of Rhetoric Employed by American Demagogues.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 27.—Senator Hill left on the 11:10 a.m. train for Lynchburg to-day. In reply to congratulations upon his Tammany Hall speech last night he said: "I am glad you were pleased, and especially with that part in which I paid my respects to that venomous class of political hypocrites and mountebanks which seems to crop out in Pennsylvania as well as other states. I can't sufficiently emphasize in words my contempt for this class of political renegades, and for bolters and malcontents within the party. If Mr. MacVeagh were a patriot, an honest man, as he now claims to be, he would not have waited for 16 years to give utterance to his belief that Mr. Tilden was honestly elected in 1876. Knowing that fact as he alleges, and suppressing it all these years, while he was the beneficiary of party favor, clearly shows he is not of the class of persons the Democratic party wants or should follow. The Democratic party, and certainly the sound Democrats, do not need a set of self lauding upstarts to undertake to tell them what to do. Every Democrat had made up his mind in November, 1876, that Mr. Tilden carried a majority of elective votes, and this McVeagh was one of the people who joined in the great political fight. The Democratic party has prospered without him, and the mess this vainglorious person has already made will do the Democratic party more injury than good. Our Irish friends are already in arms and the more he explains, the more he condemns himself. He should be repudiated by the party for its own good and it should not recognize him by listening to his harangues. It is not Democracy."

Righteous Indignation.

The Alaska Herald has been caused much grief by its esteemed contemporaries of the far north. In a recent issue it reflects an their misbehaviour in these terms:—

Alaska has many beautiful flowers, and no doubt her citizens would very much like to be represented at the Exposition with all others, but her high-toned press takes up the subject and grossly insults her in a manner that ought to arouse the indignation of every reputable citizen within her borders. It not only insults her at home but it insults her abroad, and she will have to stand the stigma unless she publicly repudiates it! The Mining Record at Juneau suggests the skunk cabbage as a suitable flower to represent Alaska, and couples its suggestion with its usual odious reflections upon the government. The Alaskan, at Sitka, (which always sneezes when the Mining Record takes snuff) suggests the devil-club as the appropriate flower to represent Alaska, and gets off a mass of his slum, caricaturing the government to the best of his asinine ability. Citizens of Alaska, what do you think of such work as this? Do you propose tamely to submit to it? Do you propose to let the outside world know that you possess self-respect enough for yourself, and respect enough for the country you live in, to repudiate with contempt such insults as these? Speak out, the civilized world has its eyes upon you! Be men, not mice! Make these snide journalists apologize through their snide sheets, for the insults they have heaped upon you, and upon the country, and then dub them with the sobriquet: "Skunk-cabbage Myers and Devil-club Schaap," and let these names follow them to their graves!—State papers please copy.

Dr McGlynn's Case.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The coming meeting in annual conference of 14 Catholic archbishops of the United States, which will begin November 16, has already been announced. New interest has been given to it by the cable statement that the Pope will have a representative present in the person of Archbishop Satolli, who, as papal legate, will be entrusted with plenary powers. The St. Louis, Mo., Western Watchman, which is one of Archbishop Ireland's organs, and of which the Rev. D. S. Phelan is editor, says: "There are many disputes among the bishops and their clergy that have long awaited settlement. Chief among these is the case of Dr. McGlynn. It is safe to say that that famous case will now come up for trial. Information from Rome is to the effect that the propaganda has received satisfactory assurances from Dr. McGlynn, and that at last his side of the question will be heard." This McGlynn announcement will occasion surprise. Dr. McGlynn refuses to be interviewed.

LAID OUT BY THE KID.

Discomfiture of a Nice Young Man Who Had no Tact.

A charming young James Bay girl is being courted by a "nice" young man, who has more cash than brains, and who literally haunts the house and is becoming decidedly de trop to all in the household. The pater has entered him on his black books as "a d—d nuisance." The mater as "a bore;" big brother Charley as "a stiff;" little brother Jack as "he makes me tired;" Miss Nellie herself as "he is so silly." The smart young brother of the fair damsel is popularly known as a "terror," and is noted for his malapropos remarks—what Punch would call "things better left unsaid." The "nice" young man's calling at the house was brought to a sudden termination last night.

Jinglison, Miss Nellie's "nice" beau, was telling what he considered a funny story. Suddenly Master Jack burst in, "Oh, I've got a conundrum, Mr. Jinglison, can you guess it?"

"What is it Jacky?"

"Well, why are you like the fog, Mr. Jinglison?"

"Why am I like the fog?" repeated Jinglison, while a titter ran round the family circle and the "old man" looked around the corner of his TIMES with a grim smile, wondering what that imp of mischief Jack, had in store for the bore.

"I give it up Jacky; what is it?"

"Well, the reason you are like the fog, Mr. Jinglison, is because you never will be missed" (mist).

Poor Jinglison reached for his derby and slunk without saying good night. The "old man" scolded Jacky severely and then gave him fifty cents and packed him off to bed.

DR ROBINSON'S VERDICT.

TO THE EDITOR:—I fancy that any doctor who happens to read the extracts you give from Dr. Robinson's contribution to the Toronto Mail will be inclined to say fervently, "Save me from my friends," for more damaging references to the medical profession and to vaccination can scarcely be imagined. First Dr. Robinson shews clearly that "all the skill of the two colleges" and "a distinguished professor" are unable to diagnose smallpox, even when it is somewhat advanced, and that patients have been incarcerated in the smallpox hospital when they were merely suffering from chickenpox, measles and scarlet fever. Comment is superfluous.

Then he brings forward a case of "a hybrid form of scarlet fever and measles" and who was by mistake put in the smallpox ward and did not not contract smallpox. This is given as a triumph for vaccination. As the medical theory is that while one has the vaccine disease in his system he cannot take smallpox, and a patient cannot have the latter and measles or scarlet fever at one and the same time, comment is again superfluous.

If he had stopped there all might yet have been well, but in his zeal Dr. Robinson talks too much. He goes on to tell of a young doctor who contracted smallpox from an isolated patient, and who gave the disease to no fewer than 18 other patients in the general hospital. Considering the position this doctor held he was of a certainty vaccinated, and probably revaccinated; and certainly a large proportion of the patients were vaccinated. Yet Dr. Robinson modestly refrains from claiming these cases as evidence of the triumphant success of vaccination. Comment is once more superfluous, so to round off my letter I shall relieve my pent up feelings with a verse of poetry:

Do I sleep, do I dream,
Do I wonder and doubt,
Are things what they seem,
Or are visions about?
Is our vaccination a failure
Or is the old nostrum played out?

WM. GREIG.

WORK AND WEALTH—AN APPEAL TO WORKINGMEN.

TO THE EDITOR:—Upon the stage the character of an actor often gives an interpretation to the play which he performs. In the drama of life the actor shows his character by the way he plays his part. The Homestead riots have been a commercial tragedy and Andrew Carnegie the tragedian.

This Andrew Carnegie, it is said, was once a laboring man himself, and he says the greatest discovery of his life was "That the man who does the work never gets rich," and from his action (or those of his agents) in the Homestead affair he appears to draw the conclusion that to maintain an efficient class of workmen they must be kept poor, and evidently he intends to do his best to keep them so. The Carnegie Co. have been making dollars by millions. The goods they produce are protected by a high tariff, which indirectly the working men have to pay in the increased cost of all they eat, drink, wear or use, and yet in spite of this the Carnegie Co. cut down their workmen's wages, not because they cannot afford to increase them; oh! dear, no! They are making millions on millions, and with the price protection enables them to get for their productions they could easily afford to raise their workmen's wages. But competition in the labor market enables them to lower wages, and so they get the pull both ways. Protection gives them an increased price for their goods and competition for work decreases their expense in wages. How long will it be before the working men will open their eyes to the fact that protection does not increase wages, but only plays into the hands of the capitalist and enables him to make much more out of the workers than he could without it? The workers get no more by the protective tariff, but the increased price the worker pays in duty charged on the goods used by him in supplying his daily needs, simply goes into the pockets of the capitalist in the increased price protection enables him to get for the articles he manufactures. And yet the workingmen of this country are gulled into believing that the tariff is a benefit to them, and that without it they would get lower wages. Carnegie's discovery is true. "The man who does the work never gets rich!" Workers, think of it! What is the relation between work and wealth? Wealth is the product of work. Work produces all wealth. No wealth can be produced except by work, and yet the worker never gets the wealth he creates. Who does get it? Workers, in the name of Wisdom, Justice and Truth, consider this question and never rest till you have answered it, and having answered it never rest till you have altered it. We will help you.

THE SINGLE TAX CLUB.

WISE'S WISDOM.

TO THE EDITOR:—Yesterday morning's Colonist contained a letter from one Abraham Wise, ostensibly in behalf of the View street drain, but in reality to try and have a fling at the Mayor, and in doing so the writer either shows his ignorance or an utter disregard of the truth. Though the View street drain is all he says it is, a fruitful breeder of disease, etc., it was one of the legacies left by last council, who recommended it for the consideration of the present council after they had squandered all the means that should have been used to do the work. The present street committee, Messrs. Styles, Baker and Hunter, are urging to have it patched up with a 16-inch pipe now, after spending this season nearly $30,000 on streets, etc., but none of it on the "standing nuisance," as Wise calls it. Mr. Wise says that in June last the street committee reported to the council the advisability of having the nuisance referred to abated by the construction of a pipe drain to connect with the Johnson street sewer, which report was adopted, and money was on hand to do the work with then, but we must suppose that the enterprising street committee thought they could get more glory (and perhaps sanctification) by spending it elsewhere, as the principal if not the only evidence of such large expenditure is to be seen on Christ Church hill, and not on any filthy drains. Mr. Wise writes that, "Owing to the lamentable extravagance and unpardonable mismanagement of matters in connection with the smallpox epidemic, the View street drain and other work of equal importance had to be abandoned and the money set aside therefore fell into the ravenous maw of the Board of Health." It is difficult to understand how a person having any self-respect could be guilty of the mendacity contained in the above quotation from his letter, because no money, not one dollar, was taken from the amount voted for streets and bridges, for smallpox purposes, and most of the $30,000 was expended on streets, &c., before the reign of Davyism commenced. It was then the "lamentable extravagance" commenced, when the medical friends of the autocrat were shoved into billets and paid $20 and $25 per day besides expenses, though showing little other qualification than abject servility and obedience to the orders of the new rulers, which seemed to be to make everything as costly and expensive for the city as possible, thereby forcing the mayor and council "into a hole," in other words, trying to financially embarrass the mayor and council and force them to do an illegal act. But I think that Mr. Wise will admit that the mayor was equal to the occasion, and though severely tried by the mean, arbitrary and discourteous tricks attempted, he has come out triumphant notwithstanding the attacks. There is no muddle in the finances, and the accounts of the city were never so straight as they are today, and the mayor is not crushed.

Had the drains' by-law passed, the View street drain might have been built in a thorough and complete manner, and thereby remedied the evils of Johnson street ravine and other neighboring nuisances as well; but since the ratepayers voted it down, we should be glad to see the proposed patching carried out on the principle, that half a loaf is better than no bread. I trust the mayor and council will yet see their way clear to have it done. This is the hope of another WISEACRE.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR "HELP."

Some Practical Suggestions That Will Be Helpful to Housewives.

Make your kitchen one of the best rooms in your house. On the floor lay an oilcloth of a small, neat pattern, which can be washed with warm water and milk, wiping after with a woolen cloth. Select good rush bottom chairs, an ironing table which when lifted serves as a bench, six flat irons with steel bottoms, a smooth cotton skirt and bosom board, large and small milk pans, and the usual number of pots and pans that the cook finds necessary.

Keep your dresser furnished with many sizes of china and stone ware dishes that will not only make it attractive, but can be used for daily kitchen use. A large table of ample dimensions should fill the center of the room, the drawers filled with utensils necessary for the culinary art. Let your windows be dressed with screen curtains, thin and open, that will not exclude the light and the cheery atmosphere without. Have your kitchen clean, inviting and homelike as your other rooms, for in so doing your help will find for themselves a resting place that they will be loath to leave.

How to Take Care of Brooms.

Choose a broom whose brush is green rather than yellow, and be careful that the handle is firmly fastened. In using a broom sweep on each side alternately, not leaning hard on it. If dipped in boiling suds every week the broom will become tough and not liable to cut the carpet. If it gets out of shape it can be restored by soaking and pressing between weights. Setting it on either end will tend to destroy the shape; therefore hang it up by a cord attached to the handle.

How to Render Wood Incombustible.

Saturate it with a very delicate solution of silicate of potash, as nearly neutral as possible. When dry apply one or two coats of a stronger solution.

How to Make Cement for Mahogany.

A cement suitable for stopping up holes and cracks in furniture of this wood is made by melting four parts of beeswax or shellac with one of Indian red, and adding yellow ocher until it is the right color.

How to Keep Bread Moist.

If possible keep in an earthen jar or pot with a tight fitting cover. If kept in tin have a perforated board to fit in two inches from the bottom on which to lay the bread. Keep an inch of water in the bottom and the lid tightly shut. To prevent rust pour out water and wipe dry for a while every day.

A BY-LAW

TO ENABLE the Corporation of the City of Victoria to borrow the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars for the purposes therein set forth.

Whereas it is necessary that the streets and sidewalks should be maintained and bridges improved and constructed, and whereas an insufficient sum of the present year's unexpended revenue is at this time available for such work, it is therefore deemed expedient to raise a sum of money for the above purposes.

And whereas for the purposes aforesaid it is intended to raise by way of loan upon the credit of the city the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars.

And whereas it will require the sum of $1,289.00 to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of the debt and interest as hereinafter mentioned.

And whereas the amount of the whole ratable property of the said Corporation of the City of Victoria according to the revised assessment roll, for the year 1891, was $17,563,148.

And whereas it will require an annual special rate of 3-40th of a mill in the dollar for the payment of the interest and the creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the principal of the said interest debt, according to the Municipal Act, 1892.

And whereas it is intended to reduce the general rate so that the said Special rate shall not increase the total rate of taxation.

Be it therefore enacted by the Corporation of the City of Victoria as follows:

SECTION 1.—It shall be lawful for the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Victoria to borrow upon the credit of the said Corporation, by way of the debentures hereinafter mentioned, from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate who may be willing to advance the same as a loan, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of $25,000.00 currency, or sterling money at the rate of $4.86 2-3rds dollars to the one pound sterling, and to cause all such sums so raised or received to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said Corporation for the purpose and with the object hereinbefore recited.

SECTION 2.—It shall be lawful for the said Mayor to cause any number of debentures to be made for such sums as may be required, not exceeding, however, the sum of $25,000.00 either in currency or sterling money (at the rate of $4.86 2-3 dollars to the one pound sterling) as may be required, each of the said debentures being of the amount of $1,000 or its sterling equivalent at the rate aforesaid, and all such debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Corporation and signed by the Mayor thereof.

SEC. (3).—The said debentures shall be made payable in fifty years from the date hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Corporation in the City Hall, Victoria, and shall have attached to them coupons for the payment of interest, and the signature of the Mayor or of the Clerk of the Corporation respectively to the coupons may be affixed by printed, stamped or lithographed fac simile.

SECTION 4.—The said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half-yearly at the office of the said Treasurer.

Sec. (5). For the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures and the interest to become due thereon, an equal special rate of 3-40ths of a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be levied and collected in each year upon all rateable property within the City of Victoria during the continuance of the said debentures or any of them.

SECTION 6.—This By-law shall before the final passage thereof receive the assent of the electors of the said Corporation in the manner provided for by the Municipal Act, 1892, and shall take effect on the 14th day of October, 1892.

SECTION 7.—This By-law may be cited as the "Street Loan By-Law, 1892."

Passed the Municipal Council this 28th day of September, 1892.

Received the assent of and confirmed by the Municipal Electors on the 11th day of October, 1892.

Reconsidered, adopted and finally passed the Municipal Council on the 12th day of October, A.D. 1892.

"STRONGLY CONDEMNED."

The Colonist seems to have been over anxious to make a point against the civic authorities when it put those words of condemnation in Chief Justice Begbie's mouth this morning. Its proceeding was most unfair and unjust to both the Chief Justice and the authorities. It was also extremely foolish, since there was so great a certainty that a wrong report would be at once corrected. The correction has been promptly applied by the Chief Justice, and it might be well for our contemporary if it would learn a lesson therefrom. Misrepresentation has become with it a confirmed habit, but its achievement of this morning was a little beyond even its usual limit. It is not very long since the Colonist had to to pay one dollar and costs on account of what the Attorney-General held to be an incorrect report of the proceedings before a former Royal commission. Now the Colonist produces an incorrect report, "flaming headlines" and all, but this time in the service of the Attorney-General. It is both unjust and unwise for a newspaper to color reports of public matters for the purpose of creating a prejudice against any person, and the offense is all the greater when the proceedings reported are those of a judicial or semi-judicial body. The Colonist should really turn over a new leaf, and make up its mind to drop this reprehensible practice.

UNCLE SAM AND THE CZAR.

The Boston Herald said in a recent issue: "Of course the Russian claim to extraordinary jurisdiction in Behring Sea rests upon the same grounds as the pretensions that we have put forward; we drawing ours from the alleged rights which Russia transferred to us at the time of our purchase of Alaska. The Herald has more than once indicated its entire disbelief in the soundness of these pretensions, and in anticipation of the finding of the international tribunal has never hesitated to condemn the action of our state department in resting what could easily be made a good and equitable case upon such an archaic and worm-eaten foundation. It hardly need be stated that if we did not have a seal fishery controversy of our own, the seizure of certain American sealers by the Russian authorities and the barbaric treatment which the crews of these vessels have had to endure, would arouse the indignation of our people; and if it were practised by the English instead of the Russians would be used to fan up a feeling that would demand a declaration of war if reparation were not instantly made. But this fine show of spirit has to be suppressed, first, because if the claims we are making upon a certain part of Behring Sea are to have any force and effect, the Russian cruisers are fully justified in seizing these American sealing vessels, while, curiously enough, it is very much easier when American citizens are maltreated to evoke sentiments of hostility if the persecutors are English officials than is the case when the barbarity is practised by representatives of the Russian Government. This, too, although the latter is the greatest and most intense despotism that exists upon the face of the earth." To anyone who looks calmly into the matter the position occupied by Uncle Sam on this Behring Sea question must appear ridiculous. Because of his absurd claim to control over one side of the sea he is obliged to let his citizens suffer both loss and indignity on the other side. If the great mass of United States citizens were interested in keeping up the United States pretence, there would not be so much cause for surprise; but the fact is that the interest is practically confined to a few seal monopolists, some of whom happen to be very close to the Government. So it comes that in these degenerate days the political descendants of Washington and Jefferson are found consenting to the oppression and ill-treatment of some of their fellow-citizens in order that others of their fellow-citizens may be able to line their pockets without too much trouble. They are found, in fact, instigating to acts of cruelty and oppression the most tyrannical and freedom-crushing of the great powers. Impartial observers naturally judge that in this matter Uncle Sam cuts a very poor figure, and he should profit by the advice of such candid friends as the Boston Herald.

THE LORDS AND HOME RULE.

It seems that Lord Salisbury has been setting forth in the National Review his opinion of the House of Lords and Home Rule. His Lordship, we are told, "ridicules the threat which has been made on behalf of the Liberals, from time to time, of swamping the Upper House by the creation of new peers in order to have Home Rule." If new peers are created, he says, the House of Lords will refuse to let them sit or vote, as similarly created peers have been refused before. Lord Salisbury does not go so far as to say that he would have the House of Lords refuse under all circumstances to pass a Home Rule bill sent up to it from the House of Commons. If the national feeling were overwhelmingly in favor of the policy supported by the majority of the Commons, then the Lords would be obliged to yield, sooner or later. But the Conservative leader does not give his own opinion as to what would constitute a sign of the nation being "overwhelmingly" in favor of Home Rule. Judgment on this point, of course, he would leave to the House of Lords, and it would be very hard to say where the Tory House would set the limit beyond which the Home Rule feeling must go to be overwhelming. There is no guarantee from past actions of the Lords that they would deal reasonably with the "national feeling" in this regard, or that they would sink their partizan spirit in the judicial character in which Lord Salisbury supposes they would appear when considering the question. Though Lord Salisbury argues cunningly in favor of the Lords being left with arbitrary power of revision, he cannot well remove the impression that it is an anomaly to have an irresponsible body at liberty to thwart the popular will until they regard it as going "overwhelmingly" in one direction. There is one reason why in this instance the Lords may be more moderate than Lord Salisbury expects, namely, the fear that if they go too far they may create a national feeling overwhelmingly in favor of "mending or ending" their own house. The Lords can undoubtedly delay Home Rule, but it does not seem likely that they can permanently defeat it, as is their wish. The bill will most probably be sent up from the Commons at more than one session before the Government decides to ask the people's judgment again. In the meantime there are many other reforms to be dealt with by the Government and the Commons, reforms which will vastly increase the Government's chances in another election, yet which the Lords cannot oppose without grave danger to themselves. It is hard to see why the nation should at the next election reverse the judgment which it gave a few months ago, even if the House of Lords should order it to do so.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Dr. Middleton, of the Toronto General Hospital staff, and Dr. Barnhart, of East Toronto, were among the first to be taken ill with smallpox. Dr. Barnhart is an old house surgeon of the general hospital, and, from professional curiosity, visited the first cases that developed there. Since that time he has been going about his duty in East Toronto, and now the people are wondering if he has carried the contagion to others.

If one were to judge only from the utterances of the Seattle and Tacoma papers, he would conclude that the two candidates for the governorship of Washington state are about the two meanest characters in that state. Mr. Snively, the Democrat, is accused of practically stealing money belonging to some minors of whom he was the guardian when living in West Virginia. It is also stated by his enemies that he virtually robbed his own father and some other people of the same place whose money he had been using in his business. All the trouble came upon him through his business breaking down. Mr. McGraw, the Republican, has very much the same sort of accusations to face, but they were first advanced by a Republican paper. The Tacoma Ledger has unearthed a story about his becoming bankrupt while he lived in a town in Maine, and of his having been thus the means of losing money for a good many people. Each of the candidates admits the bankruptcy part of the story produced against him, and each denies any intention of wrong-doing. The whole affair gives fresh evidence of the hard fate which awaits political candidates across the line. It must be admitted, however, that the presidential campaign has this year been remarkably free from personal abuse.

8,900 CHINESE IN CANADA.

What Presbyterian Missions are Doing for Them in British Columbia.

The Executive of the Foreign Mission Committee of the Presbyterian church in Canada met yesterday afternoon, says the Toronto Empire of the 19th Oct., to hear a report on the Chinese question, brought in by the Rev. A. B. Winchester, of the mission to the Chinese in British Columbia. Mr. Winchester gave a general outline of the work in its different phases and noted some of the chief difficulties to be contended with in that field. He said that of the 8,900 Chinese in the Dominion there were 3,000 in Victoria, 500 in Vancouver and 600 in Westminster. In smaller places and in the mining sections many more were to be found. Of late this population was decreasing, owing to the fact that from time to time many Chinamen were smuggled across the border. For this service they paid $200 per head.

Mr. Winchester went on to state that the progress so far made consisted chiefly in removing the prejudices and winning the confidence of the few who attended the evening schools and Sunday services. One great hindrance with which he had to contend was the need of a hall in the Chinese quarter. The present place of meeting, although not far away, was not in the current of Chinese life in the city. Then, again, inasmuch as the Chinese, although they all, or nearly all, came from the province of Canton, spoke different dialects, it was very hard to secure teachers for them. Most of them could understand Cantonese, but not each other. His (the speaker's) former acquaintance with the Mandarin dialect was no use to him whatever, but rather hindered him in preparing for the present work.

The manner of life of the Chinese in British Columbia was so utterly degraded and debasing that it was extremely desirable that they should be surrounded with elevating influences and purer associations. This might be accomplished by establishing lodging houses for them. Indeed, to carry on the work most effectively the expenditure of a great amount of money would be required. The committee took no action in regard to the matter, the discussion being an informal one.

Unruly Prisoners.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 27.—A serious outbreak occurred last night at the House of correction in South Boston. Sixty policemen were ordered there from police headquarters.

One officer and one prisoner were badly, but not seriously, injured. The trouble arose from four prisoners being denied the privilege of the yard. This caused much feeling among the other prisoners, 500 of whom rose in revolt and refused to work, and with shears, chairs, flatirons and all the other articles belonging to the workshops seriously assaulted the officers in charge. The men who were refused the privilege of the yard were the men who escaped last July and were soon recaptured. Since then they have been kept in close confinement. This caused much sympathy among the other prisoners, one of whom became unruly yesterday and attacked with a tailor's goose an officer who attempted to take him from the workshop, striking him on the head. Although almost stunned the officer at once grappled with his assailant and both fell to the floor. The other convicts joined in the attack on the officers. The noise of the struggle brought other officers to their assistance. The trouble was quelled and the unruly prisoners refused to go to work unless the men were released, but were induced by Warden Whitton to work until they could see one of the commissioners. This morning four or more leaders of yesterday's riots were locked up, and three hundred prisoners were marched out to the workshops. The men in the workshops again rose in revolt, and armed with everything they could pick up, attacked the officers. The police were quickly summoned and 17 men who had been foremost in the last riot were locked up in their cells, after a tussle. At this hour some 300 of the prisoners are working in the shops. The others are locked up and no further trouble is expected. The commissioners of public institutions are at the house and will investigate the matter.

DR. DAVIE'S DISCOURTESY.

Emphatic Protest from Two Medical Gentlemen Against the Provincial Health Officer.

Unprofessional Conduct — Vaccination by a Constable—Facts for the Royal Commission.

The following statement from two medical gentlemen is corroborative evidence of that given by Dr. Milne and others, and shows that the Provincial Health Officer is a dangerous man to be vested with authority:—

TO THE EEITOR:—We, the undersigned medical practitioners, resident in the district of Cowichan, desire to enter an emphatic protest against the action of the Provincial Health Officer, in the matter of public vaccination in the district. In the absence of any purely professional organ, in which to publish this protest, we are reluctantly obliged to avail ourselves of the ordinary newspaper. During the last three months, from the time when smallpox became prevalent in Victoria, whe have endeavored at very considerable inconvenience, and without pecuniary advantage to ourselves, to meet the requirements of the district in the matter of public vaccination; and despite the fact that we have been much hampered by the difficulty of obtaining a supply of reliable lymph from the provincial authorities, we have vaccinated and revaccinated a large number of persons of all ages.

As regards the fee for the operation, we have followed precisely the lines adopted in Victoria, reducing our fee to $1 for those who were in a position to pay it, and acting gratuitously in many cases.

A case of smallpox has occurred at Shopland's, near Maple Bay, and is at present under the care of Dr. Dickson, the duly appointed health officer, who has isolated the case and established a quarantine.

On Saturday afternoon, the 22nd inst., notices were posted at Duncan's and messages sent through the district, announcing that Dr. Davie would attend at Duncan's on Sunday, to vaccinate gratuitously every person who might attend, thereby implying that the local practitioners had not done their duty in that respect, or were ignorant of that small branch of their profession. This was done without any communication with the local health officer.

We, the undersigned, were present to meet the Provincial Health Officer. He brought with him a considerable quantity of lymph, in glass tubes, which to our surprise he appeared to consider a new method which we were pardly competent to use! With very few exceptions the persons present were in the habit of employing one or other of us as their medical attendant, and some of them expressed their desire to be vaccinated by us. Despite our presence there, Dr. Davie proceeded to operate himself, and when applied to by one of us for a small supply of lymph with which to vaccinate a family, he positively refused, and insisted that they should come there for himself to vaccinate.

Having vaccinated a large number of persons, he proceeded to instruct the local police constable in the art of vaccination, and then appointed him Public Vaccinator and Inspector of Vaccinations, directing him to report to him on the result of Sunday's work. As if to further depreciate us, the local practitioners, Dr. Davie has caused notices to be posted throughout the district, announcing that a medical man from Victoria will attend at Duncan's on Monday next, for the purpose of compulsory public vaccination.

We leave it to the profession, and to the public, to say whether or not we have been fairly, not to say courteously, treated.

We are gentlemen of more than a quarter of a century's experience in the practice of our profession, and have, each of us, been privileged to hold offices in the service of the State, military and civil, which have familiarised us with the exigencies of public life. We both of us recognize the valuable services rendered by Dr. Davie to the community during the recent outbreak at Victoria, but neither official position nor special ability can excuse gross discourtesy to men of his own profession. We remain, sir,

Yours faithfully,
LINDSAY F. DICKSON, M.D., M.R.C.S., Eng.
Brigade surgeon H.M.'s Indian army, Bengal retired list.

Northern Lumber.

The Cariboo and Fly's cargo of spruce lumber from the Royal Canadian Milling Company's mill, at Claxton, is being discharged at the Sehl-Hastie-Erskine wharf. There are some splendid samples in the cargo, several of the spruce planks being three and four feet wide, without a knot. There are also some equally fine cedar planks.

Seriously Injured.

Chris Johnson, a fireman on the Cariboo and Fly, fell through the hatchway from the upper to the second deck of that steamer, at noon to-day. He received several serious and painful bruises, the principal one being a gash above the right eye. Dr. F. Hall dressed the wounds and sent the patient to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Harmlessly Exploded.

There was a rather peculiar occurrence on Yates street this morning. A cart moving along at a rapid pace passed over a small cartridge lying on the street. One of the wheels struck it sharply discharging it. There were several people in the immediate neighborhood and the affair created quite a little sensation, as it was thought someone had been shot.

THE COQUITLAM ENQUIRY.

The Proceedings Somewhat Enlivened This Morning.

This morning's session of the Coquitlam commission was characterized by the lively manner in which Mr. Hughes cross-examined F. Dewales, a boat-puller from the Brenda, who was called on the part of the United States to give testimony regarding the length of time it took to transfer skins, the hour of going out of Tonki Bay, etc. The witness possessed a remarkable memory for the exact time of incidents on the day of transferring, but a lamentable ignorance of times on other days. The result of this suspicious state of affairs was the scoring of the witness by Mr. Hughes, who succeeded in breaking down the testimony in every particular and proving it utterly incompetent. It is thought this evidence will be thrown out when it comes before the court.

The commission did not come to order until nearly eleven o'clock. Capt. Kelly was the first witness called. He testified that his position aboard the Coquitlam was merely that of a passenger. The remainder of his testimony bore out that of Capt. McLellen's regarding the transfers made, and in all other important particulars.

F. Dewales, the boat-puller was then called. The giving of his testimony occupied the time until 12:30, when the commission adjourned.

Reporter A. N. Brown gave evidence this afternoon. He swore that he heard Captains McLellan and Grant state that they would make no transfer within the three mile limit. He did not know the distance from Cape Tonki at the time of transfer. Witness' impression was that they were more than three miles from any headland. No transfers were made inside the harbor except mail. The Carmolite, Libby, Venture, Winnifred and others did not go out of the harbor. Witness did the checking of skins taken from the schooners. He told the number of skins each schooner gave to the Coquitlam and said that the sea was choppy outside the Cape. The Coquitlam was surging around. Capt. McLellan put her head to the waves. Only mails were transferred from the Coquitlam at Port Etches.

THEIR WORDS TWISTED.

The Commissioners Taken Hold of to Thrash the Mayor and Council.

The Chief Justice Objects to the Colonist's Report of Yesterday's Session

Before opening this morning's session of the Royal Commission on the epidemic diseases, the Chief Justice called attention to the report of yesterday's session which appeared in this morning's Colonist. The commissioners were made to annoy gentlemen whom they did not wish to annoy. The article was headed in flaming capitals and read as if the commissioners had adopted Dr. Hasell's report, which they did not do. The fact was the commissioners demurred and decided not to go into the report. What he said was that the Executive could do nothing but issue the proclamation that they did, after receiving Dr. Hasell's report. Could anything be more injudicious than for a newspaper to make the commissioners adopt the report, when nothing was more contrary. The commissioners so far could see nothing to show that the mayor and aldermen had not done all they could to check the epidemic. Nothing was more unfair than for a reporter to twist the words of the commissioners. Through blockheadedness the commissioners were made the means of annoying a respectable body of men, some of whom he was personally acquainted with, and whom he did not wish to annoy. Of course, if it was his duty to speak disagreeably to them he would do so, but it had not been his duty to do so as yet. The "wretched" reporter had in this case taken hold of the commissioners to thrash the mayor and council. And all this had been done by a man who could scarcely "cross his t's or dot his i's."

SUNNY ITALY.

A Pleasant Chat With an Italian Gentleman on His Travels.

Count Tarsis, of Milan, Italy, is at the Driard. Count Tarsis is a young man who talks English considerably better than many Englishmen. He is tall, broad shouldered and has a military bearing. He dresses in a Scotch tweed suit and wears a light slouch hat. When speaking he puffs at a cigarette which he deftly holds between his fore finger and thumb, and curls the end of a thin moustache, cigarette in hand.

The TIMES man asked for the latest political news from Italy.

"I can't oblige you. It is three months since I left Italy, and changes are so rapid there that I am not even up to the times. I have done very little reading of newspapers since leaving Italy. I am touring the American continent. We hear a great deal of America and I am here to form my own opinions. I think that the Americans are a great people and I appreciate that though there are 70 millions on the North American continent, the standing army is only a handful of men. It is a great relief for a continental European to get where there are no soldiers. Military men almost outnumber civilians in the European countries. Italy keeps a large army and a good navy, and she has a depleted exchequer. But Italy does it because Austria and France, her border neighbors rejoice in that expensive luxury. I think the Italians would willingly dispense with army and navy. If they did, then Italy would become a a dependency of a continental power."

"Is there much talk of the papal temporal power?"

"It is no longer a subject of interest. The Pope does not recognize the Government and the Government does not recognize the Pope. I hear more talk of the papal possessions in America than I did in Italy. Though I think the Pope has a very remote chance of again gaining temporal power, I do not believe that the Italian Government would like to see the papal court move from Italy. I regard the person of Pope Leo as being safe in Rome. And I do not credit the rumors that he will leave Italy for Spain or elsewhere. As long as the Catholic church is the Catholic church the Eternal City will be the residence of the head of the church. You hear little or nothing of these rumors in Italy. You come to America and the Americans tell you more about your own country than you yourself know. Great people. And newspapers, why, half of the editors would be jail were they in Europe."

"Is education general in Italy?"

"It is supposed to be both general and compulsory, but the law is not the fact. The lower classes are poorly educated. The middle and higher classes devote their whole attention to the study of philosophy, the classics and the modern languages. What you know as a business education has no existence in Italy. Ideas are different there. The educated Italian can speak French or German or English. I am glad that I chose English. I will spend the winter in California and will travel into Mexico."

St. Luke's Farewell.

The members of St. Luke's church, Cedar Hill, will take leave of Bishop Hills this afternoon, when an address will be read to him and a sterling silver paper knife presented. The latter is very pretty. On the handle is an engraving of the old and new churches. There is also a suitable inscription. The knife was made by Davidson Bros. There will be a large attendance at the meeting. Busses giving free transportation are being run this afternoon from the fountain.

METHODS OF DOING BUSINESS.

Some Things Which Producers and Exchangers Should Devote Time and Attention To.

Excessive Profits and Excessive Competition—The Uneven Balance of Commercial Conditions.

Perhaps in the good times to come, says the Canadian Lumberman, when Bulwer Lytton's "Coming Race" will have peopled this earth, or Bellamy's new world has been ushered in, excessive profits and excessive competition may be consigned to the limbo of the past. These two abnormal elements, in the opinion of the Bankers' Magazine, give rise to the various difficulties in production and exchange. The pity is, though the wish may seem chimerical, that we are not able to right these matters now, and not be obliged to wait for another generation, when the remedy will do no good, at least to those of us who are about here at the present time. Conditions are unevenly balanced. Constantly one end of the teeter and again the other is in the ascendant. The see-saw is not guided by any rules of a fair equilibrium. Is the trouble where the Bankers' Magazine places it? Our impression is that this journal has very squarely struck the mark. The reasoning is supported by the logic of a wise political economy and the lessons that one's own observation and experience teach. The journal in question says: "The profits from production and exchange in many cases are so great that those who reap them seek to produce and exchange beyond what may be termed the normal or healthful limits of society. That this remark is true is within the ken of everyone's experience. The modern machinery for forcing business in many directions furnished abundant proof. The conduct of many producers and exchangers would seem to imply that men no longer had any wants; that production and exchange were not based on mutual interest, but could be affected only by the application of extraordinary energy. This seems to be the underlying idea in much of our modern exchange, and yet, as we have seen, it must be wholly false, or else our leading premise is erroneous. Another explanation for thus forcing business is the small profits, which compels producers and exchangers to increase their business in every possible manner in order to get enough to pay their expenditures and save themselves from bankruptcy. We are all familiar with the consequences of trying to do business when insolvency is pending. All know what extraordinary efforts are often made in order to avert that event. How goods are pledged for future advances; how they are sold at very low prices, and often at ruinous loss; how money is borrowed at high rates of interest; in short, all sorts of methods adopted in order to escape such an unwelcome fate; and the result of these things, of course, is most destructive to all legitimate business. Reasonable prices are destroyed, the entire market is demoralized, and, in fine, the whole process of production and exchange thrown out of gear, when the pressure to produce and sell originates from this state of things. And yet, in the past, a great deal of production and exchange has had such an origin; the unlucky are always with us, who in trying to save themselves, too often draw many others nearer to the danger line than they were before. These in brief are the leading explanations of the phenomena which we set out to explain. Men seek to produce and exchange beyond any rational desire, either to enhance their profits or to escape ruin. It is either a fight for too much or a fight for life. Probably society suffers more from the operation of the last cause than from the operation of the former, but in either case the suffering is great. Production and exchange should lead to no such results; these processes should yield mutual gains and pleasure. And they would if kept within proper limits. What produces so much loss and misery at the end is the extension of production and exchange beyond these boundaries."

A Breath From Willer Crick.

Lew, do you remember old Willer Creek mill,
On Uncle Abe Hoskinson's place,
Where we used to go ev'ry Sunday until
Folks said 'twas a public disgrace?
The girls used to put up fried chicken and bread,
And pickles and cakes filled with figs,
While we used to hitch up old Tommy and Ted
To one of those two-seated rigs.
We used to ride home through the cool summer night—
I'd manage to drive going down—
But, Lew, do you mind how I claimed as my right
The back seat a-comin' to town?
We didn't have chaperons then, bless your soul—
Too early for them, I believe—
And so we were honest, I think, on the whole,
We had no one along to deceive.
I knew you were "gone," though you never would say—
You guessed the same thing from my tone—
The girls likely soon saw just how the ground lay,
And talked it all over alone.
But, my, weren't we proper and trim going out,
When day wore his radiant crown—
But somehow a strange and weird change came about
On the back seat a-comin' to town.
Remember the fellows on Rackensack bend
Who used to give "bids" to their "rags?"
We always invited the girls to attend,
And hired two of Peterson's nags.
Bill Jones would call off in his own wooly way,
Sir Sand Sal and Hogs in the Corn,
Inviting the guests on the floor to "chaw hay,"
Till near the gray hour of morn.
Of course we were played out, but none ever owned,
Nor did any brow ever frown,
For each had a hope that perhaps he might ride
On the back seat a-comin' to town.
Old man, we have wandered some, hither and yon,
Since we lived and loved on the crick;
We've seen maidens comely and fair to look on,
And turnouts that made ours look sick.
But tell me what magic has gilded those days
To make them look brighter than these?
What old-fashioned fairy has turned into haze,
The clouds that low'red over those leas?
Of course, we are happier now than we were,
And have fewer sorrows to drown—
But I'd give to-day up, for one slip from the past,
On the back seat a-comin' to town.

—The Khan, in Hamilton Spectator.

Mars and the Earth.

Since 1877 very great advances have been made in our means of studying the surface conditions of such a planet as Mars. We have telescopes of far greater power than any that existed at that time. The spectroscope has also been improved, and the wonderful art of astronomical photography may almost be said to have been invented and perfected since Mars last paid a visit to the vicinity of the earth. It is altogether probable, then, that the present opposition will result in some most interesting and possibly startling discoveries concerning this marvellous neighbor of ours in the sky. It is not to be expected, of course, that we shall be able to obtain direct evidence that Mars is an inhabited world. The power of our instruments would need to be increased hundreds and, indeed, thousands of times in order to accomplish that. But it is not too much to expect that we shall obtain evidence which will enable us, reasoning upon analogies, to say with a high degree of probability whether Mars simply mimics the earth in the possession of an atmosphere and water while yet remaining lifeless, or whether, along with those great requisites for the support of life, it is also adorned by the presence of living and intelligent beings.—New York Sun.

A GREAT SCHEME.

One That Knocks Col. Henkle's Idea Into a Cocked Hat.

It is a known fact that in the æons of ages past, before the upheaval that formed our present lakes and mountains, a mighty river and valley wended its way across from the States, where Lake Erie now is, through Dundas valley to Lake Ontario. This valley has been traced by scientific geologists, and is earthy, not rocky. The simple, natural proposition is to construct a large syphon, say ten feet in diameter, place one end in Lake Erie, the lower end at the head of the gorge, former valley, west of Dundas; then get the water flowing, and this great syphon current, with over 175 feet head or fall, will wear and carry away the loose, disintegrated soil, receding toward the fountain head at the rate of two and a half miles per month, and will eventually drain the lake, reclaim 14,000 square miles, or 9,000,000 acres of the finest alluvial land in the world, which can be at once valued at over $300,000,000. The removed debris of the new river channel will fill up the low parts of Dundas valley and Hamilton bay, and by proper guidance of the new stream along the south shore of the bay from Dundas, Hamilton will ever have a deep, noble, navigable river, where the lake commerce of the great Northwest world will pass its doors. Canal locks and unlimited electric power stations can be built at convenient points from where old Erie was, to Hamilton, that could be utilized by the Michigan Central railway, Grand Trunk railway, Canadian Pacific railway, and Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo railway. Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Sandusky, Toledo, etc., would become inland cities, and their immense iron and other trades must of a necessity be removed to the water-front of Dundas and Hamilton valleys. Niagara Falls will then lose its world-wide prestige and be a mere stripling continuation of Chippewa creek, and the proposed Monument city at Queenstown will be a misty myth of the past.—Monetary Times.

Their Barefoot Teacher.

We must adapt our appliances and methods to the work in hand, and we must sacrifice our false notions of dignity to the case, we must save souls, we must pull men out of the fire, we must get hold of them. A Sabbath school teacher going to his school one afternoon saw a crowd of barefooted boys playing ball. He leaned on the fence and watched them until, growing curious to know why a well-dressed gentleman should be so interested in them, they came up to where he was. He did not break out and scold them for playing ball on the Sabbath, but told them of the ball games he used to play when a boy, and managed to explain that he didn't play on the Sabbath, and why not, that he had a good place to go on Sundays now where lots of other people went. "Say, mister, where is it?" "Well, it is a place where you can go, too." "Where is it?" "It is a Sunday school." "No, we are barefooted." "Never mind, I will see that you are treated right." "No, we ain't going among a lot of dressed-up kids and we barefooted." "Would you go if your teacher was barefooted also?" "But he won't be." "But would you?" "Yes, wouldn't we, Bill?" "Of course we would," said Bill, and so said all. Down sat the teacher and off came his shoes and hose. "Now, boys, I am as barefoot as any of you. Come," and they went. That barefooted teacher taught them, notwithstanding the horrified looks of the dilettantes. Well, those boys were back the next Sabbath with shoes on their feet, and out of that class of street arabs so gathered in went forth stalwart Christian men to do heroic work for mankind.—Hall's Journal of Health.

The Colors of Inks.

It is claimed to be possible to demonstrate differences in the colors of inks which cannot be seen, the one ink appearing light and the other dark. It is well understood the tints of the inks that are called black are either brown, red, green or blue in shade; such tones have but little effect on the eye, as it is chiefly sensitive to the yellow and red rays. But the chief sensitiveness of photographic plates, on the other hand, lies in the blue, violet and ultra-violet. As with ordinary sensitive plates, yellow and green subjects are rendered dark, and blue ones light, the same, it is stated, will follow in photographing inks of various tones, a difference which considerably intensified by the use of suitably colored light and color-sensitive plates. In this manner marked differences in the various inks can be clearly and distinctly demonstrated. The method, it is believed, can be made practically useful in the application of photography to the detection of the falsification of handwriting; that is, in a case of that kind, the process will be serviceable, as in an enlarged photographic picture erasures and alterations can be more clearly seen than in the original.

Rubber Tires for Carriages.

The success of rubber tires on bicycles has frequently led to attempt to increase the comfort of buggy and carriage riding by fixing tires on to the wheels, but in the majority of instances the attempt was not a success, as the tire either came off or wore out in a very short space of time. Since, however, pneumatic tires have displaced the solid ones on bicycles, the attempt is being renewed, and buggies and other vehicles are likely to be seen on the boulevards in large numbers before long as noiseless and free from vibration as bicycles. Carriage builders believe there is an immense amount of money to be made out of vehicles with rubber tires on the wheels, and they are likely to keep on experimenting until they finally succeed in producing the desired article.—Globe-Democrat.

PROF. SWINTON DEAD.

The Somewhat Remarkable Career of a Scotch Canadian.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Prof. William Swinton died suddenly to-day.

William Swinton was a brother of the well-known New York journalist, John Swinton. William was born at Salton, Scotland, on April 23, 1833, was educated at Knox college, Toronto, Canada, and at Amherst, with a view to fitting him for the ministry, and in 1853 he began preaching, but finally adopted the profession of teaching. He was professor of ancient and modern languages at the Edgeworth Female Seminary, at Greensborough, N.C., in 1853-54. He afterwards accepted a professorship in the Mount Washington collegiate institute in New York city. He had been a contributor to the New York Times, and in 1858 he was taken on the staff of that paper. In 1862 he was sent to the front as war correspondent. He was equipped for this work by close study of military art, and he so freely discussed tactical movements that in 1884 Gen. Ambrose E. Burnside, whom he had criticised in his letters, procured an order for his exclusion from the army. He also at a later date incurred the displeasure of Gen. Grant. In 1867 he travelled through the southern states and collected material for a history of the war from the military and civil leaders of the Confederacy. Returning to the office of the Times he resumed the work of literary criticism in which province he had gained a reputation before he became a war correspondent. Before abandoning journalism, he published in newspaper articles and in a pamphlet an exposure of the machinations of railroad financiers to procure subsidies. In 1869 he became professor of belleslettrs in the University of California, where he remained for five years. Subsequently he made Brooklyn, N.Y., his residence, devoting himself to the composition of educational works most of which were widely adopted in public and private schools. For a series of these which cover most of the studies pursued in schools, he received a gold medal at the Paris exposition of 1867 "for educetional works of remarkable originality and value." While in the South he had contributed to Putnam's monthly some critical and philosophical articles and a series of etymological studies that were afterwards published under the title of "Rambles Among Words: Their Poetry and Wisdom." His principal military works were: "The Times Review of McClellan; His Military Career Reviewed and Exposed;" "Campaigns of the Army of the Potomac, a Critical History of Operations in Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania;" "The Twelve Decisive Battles of the War," and "History of the New York Seventh Regiment During the War."

WHITE SLAVES IN THE TROPICS.

A German-American Recites the Sufferings of Himself and Others in Cuba.

Letters have been received in this city from Sigua, Cuba, in which Alfred von Kalkow, the leader of a party of young German-Americans who lately "sold themselves into Cuban slavery," publishes his and his companions' experiences, and begs for funds to enable them to return to New York. They signed a contract, it appears, with a New York employment bureau, which made a specialty of engaging farm hands for Cuban and South American planters. The contract was for a twelve-month, and its stipulations were very stringent. The men were engaged at a fixed salary, and their employer promised to board and house them decently.

"Myself and five companions," says this writer, a member of an excellent German family, "succeeded a few weeks ago in running away from the plantation, where we were used worse than slaves, and starved into the bargain. Our flight was attended by many dangers, but we escaped the vigilance of our pursuers and arrived safely at Santiago de Cuba. At that town we sought refuge with the German Consul, who declined to have anything to do with us, as we had broken our 'contract' with our master and were subject to punishment. We then tried to find work on outgoing sailing ships and steamers, but were unable to meet a captain willing to allow us to work our way back to the United States.

"By this time our funds were exhausted; we were starved, weary and discouraged. Finally we lay down on the docks to await death. A German merchant of Santiago found us in this condition and saved our lives by offering us a substantial meal. He fed us for a week, during which time we continued our search for work. Being unsuccessful, there remained only the alternative of starving or returning to the plantation whence we had fled. We chose the latter alternative, but no pen can describe our sufferings on the road and the terrible experiences in store for us after we re-entered the service of the Cubans.

"Two of my companions died from the effects of exhaustion, overwork and insufficient nourishment. I myself have just come out of the hospital, and am but the shadow of my former self. There are besides me some fifty Germans and German-Americans working on the plantations hereabouts under the same conditions as I. We are all doomed unless speedily rescued from the clutches of the slaveholders."

The writer closes his letter with an appeal to his friends to send him enough money to pay his return passage to New York.

Cheating a Landlord.

Some people seem to regard their landlord as their natural enemy, and take every opportunity of having the advantage of him if they can. A man of this sort was a grocer who leased a shop in a leading thoroughfare. Whenever rent day came around this gentleman was always sure to demand an abatement for some reason or other. On one occasion he asked a deduction of ten pounds, this being the value of a number of sacks of flour that had been destroyed by the bursting of a waste pipe, which he contended was due to negligence of the landlord. As it seemed impossible for the leak, which was very trifling, to have caused such an extensive destruction, we resisted the claim, and resorted to legal measures to enforce payment of rent.

Meantime the grocer had discharged an assistant for some offense, and this young man, no doubt by way of doing his late employer a "good turn," informed us that the flour destroyed was some musty old rubbish upon which his master had deliberately poured a few bucketfuls of water. The grocer, on being acquainted with this statement, described it as simply a cock and bull story concocted by the assistant. Later on, however, he seemed to view the matter in a different light, for on the day before that on which the case was set down for hearing he paid the rent in full, and also the court expenses. After that we were troubled with no more claims for damage to goods—so far as this gentleman was concerned.—London Tit Bits.

Lord Dufferin a Popular Man.

No contemporary statesman has been so universally popular with political opponents and friends as Lord Dufferin. Certainly no man has had fewer enemies. From time to time he has had his share of abuse, as, for instance, when he annexed Upper Burmah, and also when he wrote his glowing account of the British administration of Egypt, but as he has served both parties in the state with equal credit, the New York Press thinks it is gratifying to note that there was no exception to the chorus of praise raised by the press at his installation of lord warden of the Cinque Ports, one of the most coveted positions in the gift of the British crown. At Paris, of course, he is the right man in the right place. Firstly, he is an Irishman whom Parisians greatly affect; secondly, he speaks French en vrais Parisien; thirdly, he is a litterateur, and equally at home with homme d'affaires and homme de lettres. Lord Dufferin is one of the illustrations of the doctrine of heredity. He is the only living representative of the great Sheridan. His mother, Lady Dufferin, afterward Lady Gifford, was an accomplished lady, who wrote pretty songs and set them to rather sweet music.

THE ANNUAL CHARITY BALL.

Success Crowns the Efforts of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Jubilee Hospital.

An Immense Crowd Attends the Ball Held at the Assembly Hall Last Evening.

Every year the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Jubilee Hospital make efforts to have their annual ball better than it was the year before. If they were ever successful in carrying out this idea it was this year. The annual ball held last evening was undoubtedly far ahead of any ball previously held by the ladies. People who never before took any interest in the ball were present and helped to make the affair the success that it was.

Shortly after 8.30, the time appointed for the opening of the ball, the couples commenced to arrive by the carriage load, and before the first dance on the programme was finished the large hall was crowded to overflowing. It was almost an impossibility to dance when the crowd was at its thickest, the hall being simply "packed." But everybody enjoyed it, and those who remained later in the evening were just as capable of enjoying a good waltz as if they had not been crowded around earlier. There were twenty-four dances on the well-arranged programme, and although it was several hours after midnight before the last dance was called, many remained for it.

The hall had been very neatly decorated with flags, bunting, evengreens and appropriate mottoes. In the northern corners of the hall were two very comfortable "cosy corners," luxuriantly furnished, and in different places booths had been arranged where the ladies could spend the time between the dances.

The dining-room and tables had received special attention, and the tables were arranged as ladies only know how. Appetizing dishes of every description were placed before the hungry dancers, who, it is needless to say, showed entire satisfaction at the ladies' efforts.

The music was supplied in an acceptable manner by the Warspite orchestra.

The patrons of the ball were His Honor, the Lieut. Governor, His Worship Mayor Beaven. Rear Admiral Hotham. C. B., and Lieut. Col. Holmes, R.C.A.

The managing committee was composed of the ladies' auxiliary, viz., Mrs. G. A. McTavish. president; Mrs. C. Hayward, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. A. J. Smith. Mrs. Radlin, Mrs. McMicking and Miss Hyams. The floor stewards were: Mr. Joshua Davies, president Jubilee hospital; Mr. Chas. Hayward, vice-president; Mr. Wm. M. Chudley, hon. treas.; Mr. H. S. Yates, secretary.

Bewildered by the Fog.

Last night at 7:45 a hack belonging to W.G. Bowman, driven by John Woods, and containing Mr. and Mrs. Richards on the way to the outer wharf to catch the City of Kingston for Seattle, drove over the embankment near the James Bay Club house. A TIMES reporter, securing a lantern, was on the scene a moment later and assisted Mrs. Richards to extricate herself from the wreck of the hack. The driver appeared to be bewildered by the fog for he drove over the bank at a good round pace, evidently thinking he had come to the turn in the road. The hack turned completely over and was going over for the second time when stopped. The poor brutes of horses went down with a smash against the piles along the water's edge. Mrs. Richards was the worst hurt of the whole party, sustaining a very severe sprain of her ankle. She was also suffering from nervous shock, and when placed in the Dominion hotel bus, fainted and fell upon the floor. Mr. Richards, beyond a few cuts and bruises and the rough shaking up, is all right. The hackman and a man who sat with him on the front were slightly injured. The hack is badly damaged, the hind springs being broken, glasses smashed, etc. The horses escaped unhurt. The carriage was hauled out this morning and taken to the repair shop.

Dr. Sproule attended to the injured persons. The doctor states that Mrs. Richards is quite seriously hurt, having been insensible several times since the accident. Her knee is very painfully injured, and she suffers severely from nervous prostration. Mr. Richards seems to have had an awfully narrow escape from a terrible death, for he states that as the carriage reached the bottom of the embankment his head was forced through the spokes of the hind wheel and his neck was severely wrenched. Dr. Sproule says Mrs. Richards will be able to resume her journey in a few days.

Representing Railroads.

A Chicago party of well known railroad men arrived in the city last evening and are quartered at the Driard. They are A. D. Charlton, assistant general passenger agent of the N. P., with headquarters at Portland, and Mrs. Charlton; Percy Charlton, of the Chicago & Alton Railway, with headquarters at Chicago; E. S. Jackson, general agent of the Great Northern at Portland; W. H. Mead, general agent of the Northwestern line at Portland; F. W. Parker, Puget Sound agent of the Northwestern line; and W. N. Mears, traveling passenger agent of the Northern Pacific.

The Catholic Bazaar.

The city is being energetically canvassed by ladies interested in St. Andrew's cathedral bazaar. They are meeting with every encouragement. The booths and the ladies in charge are: Fancy booths, Mrs. Louis McQuade and Mrs. P. Patton; plain work, Mrs. Thomas Daley; dolls, Mrs. M. A. Finn-Smith; candy, Miss Sophie Cameron; flower booth, Misses Mary and Sophie McNiff and Miss Clara Finn; wheel of fortune, Miss Agatha Dolan; refreshments, Mrs. McCauley, Mrs. Madigan and Miss Skinner.

Fishery Statistics.

Inspector of Fisheries McNab, of Westminster, was in town yesterday. Mr. McNab's mission was to collect data for fisheries returns to be forwarded to Ottawa. He says that there is a large number of fish caught by Indians and sold to Chinamen and of which a record cannot be kept. Mr. McNab has recently visited the hatchery, and says that the ova are being collected.

Small Sealer Lost.

The barkentine Worster, which arrived at San Francisco on Friday last, brought down Captain George Balls and the crew of five of the little sealing schooner Active, which was built at Port Ludlow last year for W. J. Morrisey of San Francisco. The Active was totally wrecked at Cold Bay last month through dragging her anchor in a blow. She only registered 7½ tons, and did not last any longer in the surf than a rowboat would. All the crew escaped with a ducking.

An Irish National Society.

In the course of a few days a meeting will be called for the formation of an Irish society, a project which has been discussed for some time. It is proposed to keep religious and political matters out of the society. Pioneer Hall will probably be secured as a meeting place. Prominent Irishmen in the city are deeply interested in the scheme and are giving it their warmest support.

Touched in the Fog.

The steamer City of Kingston came in last night with her bow scratched up somewhat, and some of her window lights broken. Tuesday night in the fog she ran into the bark Mary Parker, lying at anchor near Point Hudson. The Parker was not ringing her bell and Capt. George Roberts has made complaint against her. The damage may not exceed $100.

The Advertising

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is always within the bounds of reason because it is true; it always appeals to the sober, common sense of thinking people because it is true; and it is always fully substantiated by endorsements, which in the financial world would be accepted without a moment's hesitation.

Wm. Black in the "Strange Horse of Suinabhal" writes, "I hef been in Islay more as three times or two times myself, and I hef been close to the "Lagavulin" Distillery, and I know that it is the clear water of the spring that will make the "Lagavulin" Whisky, just as fine as new milk."

Again in Wm. Black's famous book "The Daughter of Heth" Neil indignantly responds: "It's the real "Lagavulin" and wauldna harm a flea. You may drink as much, and have one good drink, and feel no bads effects in sa morning."

BROKEN PROMISES.

The Shameful Manner in Which Government Treats Kootenay.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27.—Thos. J. Bentley, a leading lumber dealer of Halifax, has just purchased a cargo of spars for Nova Scotia builders. Hitherto he got his spars from Puget Sound, through Boston dealers, but hereafter will purchase in British Columbia.

Vancouver dealers who have just returned from Kootenay speak strongly in condemnation of the Government for not building a wagon road from Nakusp to New Denver. Out of the sale of the townsite of the latter the Government realized $26,000, the purchasers buying on the understanding that a road would be built forthwith, but that has not been done. This would bring the trade of the section and Arrow Lake, via Revelstoke to Vancouver and Victoria wholesalers. The Kaslo people have constructed a road into the mining camps at their own expense, and all the ore being taken out of Slocan goes down Kootenay Lake to American smelters, and of course merchandise is brought from that quarter. A special meeting of the board of trade will be called to protest.

Local legal gentlemen are in a quandary because no officers have been appointed for Vancouver judicial district, and all service of writs and seizures is under the sheriff of New Westminster since Oct. 1st. This may be declared illegal.

A company has been formed to manufacture jute bags and barrels. B. T. Rogers of the sugar refinery is president.

The corner stone of the First Presbyterian church will be laid next week with Masonic honors.

London Christmas Market Stock.

PARIS, Ky., Oct. 27.—Charles Alexander, the millionaire banker of this city, and the cattle king of Bourbon county, has just sold 700 fine Durham cattle to T. C. Eastman, of New York, for $65,000. The cattle will be shipped to New York to-morrow, and it will require sixty cattle cars to transport them. The cattle will average 1800 pounds in weight, and are the finest Kentucky cattle ever sent out. They will be shipped to London for Christmas beef. Part of them are going to Queen Victoria.

Poe is Happy.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—General Poe has received word from the war department that a 20 foot channel between Duluth, Chicago and Buffalo had been fully approved by the department, and directing him to insert the necessary advertisements for bids for doing the work. General Poe is naturally elated over the success of his deep water project, but not more so than vessel men who have worked so earnestly for the deep channel. There is consequently great rejoicing in marine circles today.

One Cent a Copy.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—The Chicago Times, now under the successful management of ex Mayor Carter Harrison, announces this morning in its editorial columns, that after the current date the paper will be sold to buyers in the city of Chicago for one cent a copy.

Death of Duncan Wilkes.

CHICO, Cala., Oct. 27.—In the fire fire which destroyed the barn of A. L. Duncan this morning the fine breeding stallion Duncan Wilkes, valued at $10,000 was burned to death. The total loss was about $15,000.

Fell Fifty Feet

PINEVILLE, Ky., Oct. 27.—The false work of a bridge being constructed the Cumberland river at this place collapsed to-day and five workmen were thrown into the river, 50 feet below. One man was killed and three injured.

Collided in a Fog.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 27.—During a dense fog this morning three miles below the city, the steamers Iralda and Iona collided. Hans Peterson, a fisherman, jumped overboard and perished. Two other men were injured. The boats were not badly damaged.

How to Treat Rough Ceilings.

When ceilings look rough and show a tendency to peel, go over them with a solution in the proportion of an ounce of alum to one quart of water. This will remove all superfluous lime and make the ceiling white.

How to Clean Iron Pots.

Fill them nearly full of water, add a quantity of sodium carbonate (washing soda) and boil until the iron has become clean.

How to Bleach Ivory.

Ivory can be bleached by laying it for a little time in water containing a little sulphurous acid, chlorine or chloride of lime.
